My Reading Challenge

Fun Notebook Tracker for Children (8.5"x11" UK English A4)

Every year, schools and libraries in the UK (and around the world) encourage children to take part in a reading challenge during their summer holidays. Whether your children are taking part in this challenge or you simply want to encourage them to read more, the "My Reading Challenge" notebook has been designed as a great resource to help children stay excited about their challenge, log and track the books they've read, and show they have understood and thought about what they are reading. This reading-themed journal is a fun activity book where they can write or draw their feelings about each book to share later with their teachers or challenge organisers and their family. The book is perfect for Key Stage 2 (KS2) children but can be used for all primary school children (ages 4-11) with parental help. Questions are generic so they can apply to fiction and non-fiction books, and ample white space means that younger children can draw - rather than write - their answers if they prefer. space for 10 books (challenges often recommend 6 books but extra space has been given for children who want to move beyond that) book log at the beginning of the notebook for children to list the books they have read, in brief book log at the end of the notebook to list books your children want to read, to get them excited about continuing to read beyond the challenge fun, full-colour illustrations with a reading theme - "Look Inside" for design and book questions 8.5"x 11" (approx. A4) workbook with a bright glossy paperback cover to appeal to younger children rating system based on 5 stars This is the UK version of the reading challenge workbook and uses British English spelling - such as "favourite" not "favorite". US English version COMING SOON. Also available in other designs. Please note: paper stock is good quality 100 GSM but we recommend drawings are done in coloured pencils or crayons to avoid bleed.

The Worth of Water

Our Story of Chasing Solutions to the World's Greatest Challenge

Penguin From the founders of nonprofits Water.org & WaterEquity Gary White and Matt Damon, the incredible true story of two unlikely allies on a mission to end the global water crisis for good On any given morning, you might wake up and shower with water, make your coffee with water, flush your toilet with water—and think nothing of it. But around the world, more than three-quarters of a billion people can't do any of that—because they have no clean water source near their homes. And 1.7 billion don't have access to a toilet. This crisis affects a third of the people on the planet. It keeps kids out of school and women out of work. It traps people in extreme poverty. It spreads disease. It's also solvable. That conviction is what brought together movie actor Matt Damon and water expert and engineer Gary White. They spent years getting the answer wrong, then halfway right, then almost right. Over time, they and their organization, Water.org, have found an approach that works. Working with partners across East Africa, Latin America, South Asia, and Southeast Asia, they've helped over 40 million people access water and/or sanitation. In The Worth of Water, Gary and Matt take us along on the journey—telling stories as they uncover insights, try out new ideas, and travel between the communities they serve and the halls of power where decisions get made. With humor and humility, they illuminate the challenges of launching a brand-new model with extremely high stakes: better health and greater prosperity for people allover the world. The Worth of Water invites us to become a part of this effort—to match hope with resources, to empower families and communities, and to end the global water crisis for good. All the authors' proceeds from the sale of this book will be donated to Water.org.

An Anthropological Defense of God

Routledge Anthropology--the study of man--is unlike every other study because humans are its subject. And because we are its subject we cannot manage the philosophic and emotional distance necessary to see clearly. Unable to stand apart from ourselves to comprehend our own truth, we are compelled to assume things about ourselves that we cannot prove. In a word, anthropology begins in faith. Lloyd Sandelands approaches the anthropological quest for God by comparing the faiths of modern social science and of the Christian church. Sandelands describes the social scientific faith articulated by Hume, Kant, Rousseau, Schopenhauer among others, as an imagined state of nature that sees the individual as solitary, self-sufficient, and contented. By contrast, the Christian faith unites us as male and female persons in one flesh before God. The challenge in the author's view is to decide which faith to build our lives upon. Sandelands poses questions about the basic terms of human study--what is a person, and what is society?--and how do the different metaphysics of science and Church lead to different anthropologies? A worthwhile anthropology must address the questions of what constitutes human freedom, desire, and the nature of the good. Comparing the answers given by science and by the church, he finds that the one paradoxically denies freedom, denies want, and denies the good, while the other affirms freedom, affirms want, and affirms the good. Between these two anthropologies he finds there is but one true study of man. A companion to Sandelands' Man and Nature in God, his most recent book, An Anthropological Defense of God attempts to establish that an anthropology in God succeeds where an anthropology in science fails. Such success is measured not only by its ideas and findings about man, but even more by its wisdom in teaching us how to live.
